THE ACCEPTABLE YEAR OF THE LORD

LUKE 4:19; ISAIAH 49:8

HAPPY NEW MONTH

Welcome to the month of March! It's our month of 'New Possibilities'.

God will open new vistas of possibilities and opportunities. What that was once thought improbable and impossible will be done cheaply and speedily in the name of Jesus.

Here in HERMON, the sent word of God does not return unfulfilled. My earnest prayer is that this word for the month will find full expression in all of our lives.

Our sermon series throughout this month is on FAITH.

It is not enough to know what God has said He will do. It is also important to position ourselves to possess the promise. It is through the teaching of the word of God that we gain insight on how to receive all that God promised.

So make sure you don't miss out on all God has for you. Make it your goal to attend all services this month.

Our monthly fasting and prayer is March 3rd-5th (Monday-Wednesday). Participate to partake. God has done mighty things in our monthly fasts. He will do much more this month in Jesus' name.

This month is full of blessings and pleasant surprises. You will not miss or miscarry yours. Are you set for a supernatural flight to higher levels?

Enjoy a testimony-filled week!

SERMON SUMMARY: FRAMING YOUR WORLD

Faith is not about denying reality; it is about recognizing reality while refusing to let negativity dictate the course of your life. It is our responsibility to shape our worlds.

Words possess immense power, and it is through words that we frame our reality (Proverbs 18:20-21). However, spoken words must originate from a place of meditation. To effectively frame our world with our words, we must first frame our thoughts with the Word of God.

Our thoughts reflect who we are (Proverbs 23:7), and from the abundance of our hearts, our mouths will speak (Matthew 12:34). God gifted us with the ability to speak not only for communication but also for creation (John 1:1-3). This process begins with our thoughts. Anything that shapes our thoughts ultimately shapes our lives.

The words we speak determine what we produce (Proverbs 13:2). Whatever we constantly think about is what we will consistently produce (Deuteronomy 6:6-8, 11:18-21).

We can find everything we seek in the Word of God. When we prayerfully seek God's Word, He sends His light through revelation, leading to material manifestation (James 1:17).

Revelation is not merely for gaining knowledge but for producing tangible results. However, these results will only materialize when we put the revelation into action (James 2:18). Our lives will attract the material equivalent of our most dominant thoughts.

For our words to be powerful, they must align with our thoughts (Proverbs 23:7). So, how do we make the Word of God our most dominant thought and the most dominant thing we speak? Psalm 19:14. God commands us to lay up His Word in our hearts (Deuteronomy 6:6, 11:8). We accomplish this by following the guidance in Joshua 1:8.

Meditation involves holding internal conversations and brooding over something. Just as eating is essential for physical growth, food digestion truly allows us to grow; meditation can be likened to the digestion of spiritual food. It is through pondering and brooding over the Word of God that we experience spiritual growth.

We are instructed to meditate on God's Word day and night (Joshua 1:8). Vigils can involve more than prayer; they can also involve reading and meditating on God's Word.

Just as improperly cooked food can be challenging to digest, it is possible not to absorb God's Word fully.

This is why Pastors must be well-prepared and study God's Word to provide their flock with the right spiritual nourishment.

In agriculture, a cow that does not chew the cud may not produce enough milk and could be sick. Similarly, if we do not revisit and meditate on God's Word, we will not produce the fruits of righteousness, and it may indicate spiritual unsoundness (1 Timothy 4:15).

Two notable examples of meditation in the Bible are:

1. Isaac: Isaac was meditating in the fields when his wife, Rebecca, was brought to him (Genesis 24:63-67).
2. Joshua: Before the children of Israel crossed the River Jordan after Moses' death, Joshua separated himself to meditate. (Joshua 5:13-15).

Our lives will follow the trajectory of our most dominant thoughts. Thus, if we ponder good things and confess what we ponder, then we will have good things (Mark 11:23, Philippians 4:8).

DAILY DEVOTIONAL

Our decisions set the course of our lives. While everyone is free to make decisions and exercise their will in their choices, no one is free from the consequences.

Esau chose to sell his birthright for a plate of food. But when it was time to receive the blessing, the consequences of his choice could not be reversed.

Even though he repented and wept sorely, it was already too late to make amends. (Hebrews 12:16-17). Judas Iscariot decided to betray Jesus Christ for just thirty pieces of silver. It was a decision he could not reverse when he saw the consequences of his choice.

He regretted his actions, but the course of events his decision started took a turn that led to a terrible, bitter end. He ended up hanging himself and dying a shameful death. Was thirty pieces of silver really worth that choice he made? Choices have consequences, and decisions determine destiny.

ENCOUNTERS in HERMON

'And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb and the word of their testimony....!'

(Revelation 12:11)

A testimony shared is a testimony preserved and multiplied!

Has God done something for you?

Then, you should share it to the hearing of others so that God will be glorified, your testimony preserved and multiplied and the people of God edified.

Starts - Sunday | March 9, 2025

God sets the solitary in families. (Psalm 68:6).

Have you been through our membership class?

This is an opportunity to know more about our church and get integrated in our church community.

It's not enough to just visit and go. Become a valuable part of something bigger than you. Be part of a family. You don't need to do life alone.

Join this class after 2nd service next Sunday.

In the next few weeks, I will give proven Biblical principles that guide and guard choosing of a wife or husband. A good marriage starts with choosing well. If you correctly answer these questions which underline these principles, you would have already made huge leap into a happily-ever-after.

Principle 1 - Christ

The first question (which is the foundation) is this: is your intending in Christ? Is he or she born again? If he or she is not, you have broken the first principle. You will be unequally yoked. (2 Corinthians 6:14). If you are a believer, the word of God commands you to marry a believer. You neglect this command at your peril and pain.

The head or spiritual authority of any unbeliever is the devil - he rules over everyone who is not saved (Ephesians 2:2). The devil will use that unsaved intending to frustrate you. Be sure of this. You should also know that you don't marry them to save them. You are not the Messiah. If they are not saved before wedding, there is no guarantee they will be saved after it.

If you ignore this command, you will endure marriage instead of enjoying it. It does not matter how long it takes, God's word cannot fail. Don't allow passion or pressure blind you. Stick to what the word of God says. It is the only safe and sure ground.

This life is already tough. Don't make it tougher for yourself. In Christ or in crisis, you choose.
